Capital One CityParks FOUNDATION
SUMMERSTAGE

New York City's iconic SummerStage festival is back for its 38th season, with 85 free performances in 13 parks all across the city. This annual celebration will highlight legendary jazz musicians, powerhouse women, hip-hop visionaries, and global superstars bringing their talents to some of the city's most beloved outdoor spaces across the five boroughs.

The season will showcase forward-thinking women pushing boundaries, starting with opening night headliner, GRAMMY-winning and Oscar-nominated soul singer Andra Day, and continuing with rock icon Kim Gordon, whose new album The Collective is a maelstrom of raw beats and screeching guitars; Arooj Aftab, the first Pakistani-American woman to win a GRAMMY, known for weaving Urdu ghazals and poetry into electronic soundscapes; Sister Nancy, the pioneering first lady of dancehall whose work has been sampled by Jay-Z among many others; golden voice pop chart-topper Corinne Bailey Rae; and Alcione, the Brazilian "Queen of Samba" whose joyful and exuberant albums have gone gold or platinum more than 20 times.

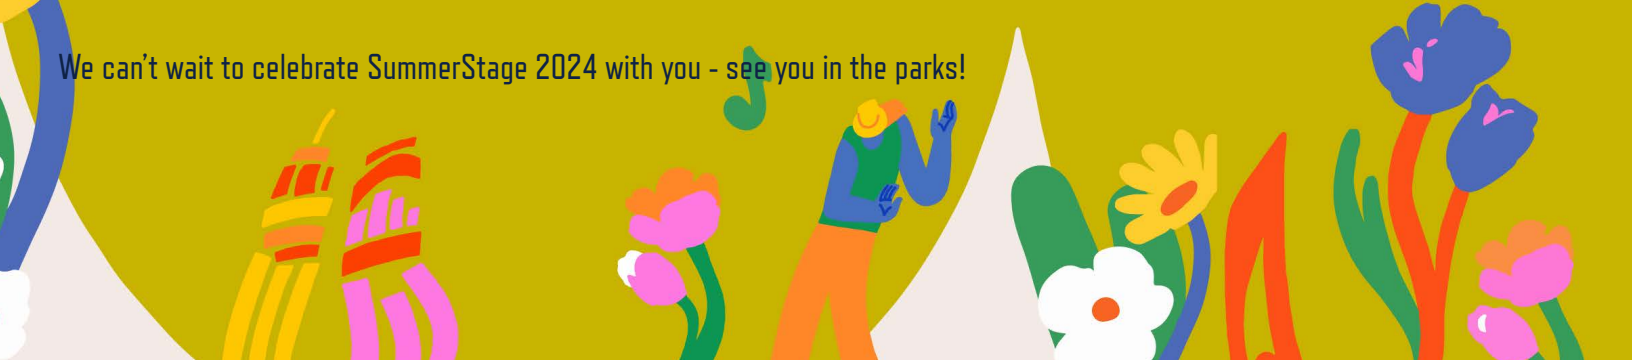

This year we are also spotlighting multiple generations of jazz artists. London drummer Yussef Dayes will showcase his unique experimental style alongside interpretive contemporary jazz bassist and vocalist Aneesa Strings, and the Ezra Collective quintet will dazzle with their Mercury Prize-winning afrobeat-reggae-jazz sound. In August we will celebrate our annual Charlie Parker Jazz Festival in Harlem and the East Village, featuring not-to-be-missed performances from multi-faceted jazz virtuoso Christian McBride Big Band, NEA Jazz Master drummer Louis Hayes, the distinctive vibrato of singer and composer Carmen Lundy, and more.

SummerStage's season also highlights music from around the world, celebrating the diverse communities that make up NYC. The Godfather of Salsa Andy Montañez and the salsa scion Charlie Cruz will showcase the stylings of Puerto Rico. GhanaFest brings good vibes to the Bronx's Crotona Park, headlined by Ghanaian highlife and afrobeats singer King Promise. In Central Park, a slew of pop singers bring the sounds of down under to the annual AUSSIE BBQ, the Dominican Republic takes over for a merengue hip-hop house party with Proyecto Uno and la reina Milly Quezada, and rappers Show Dem Camp bring their Lagos-based Palmwine Festival to NYC to showcase contemporary West African and Nigerian music.

This year's festival will continue to highlight hip-hop in its birthplace. In Bed-Stuy's Herbert Von King Park, MIKE's Young World festival returns in its fourth iteration, featuring the vibrant, young hip-hop community with Earl Sweatshirt and other guests. We're also celebrating the life and impact of legendary Detroit artist J Dilla, with performances from LA's The Pharcyde, who had numerous beats crafted by Dilla, and Slum Village, his first group. Storied rapper and Bronx Walk of Fame inductee Slick Rick, "Human Beat Box" Doug E. Fresh, and others celebrate the birthday of local radio personality Funk Flex. And comedian, rapper, and internet sensation NEMS, a longtime champion of his home neighborhood of Coney Island, taps Wu-Tang Clan MC Ghostface Killah and a cadre of artists like Statik Selektah and Tony Touch.

Our benefit show line-up looks stellar this year, with performances by Southern Gothic indie-pop mother Ethel Cain, autotune god turned natural vocal powerhouse T-Pain, '90s grunge rock mainstays Counting Crows, premiere hip-hop group The Roots, and many others to be announced.

We can't wait to celebrate SummerStage 2024 with you - see you in the parks!
